

Reds Fire Man Into Orbit For 24 Hours; To Circle Earth 17 Times, Land Today

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's second astronaut was launched into space around the earth Sunday after lunch, supper and a night's sleep aboard his space craft.

There were predictions that he would land Monday after 24 hours aloft and 17 trips around the earth.

The spaceman, Maj. Gherman Stepanovich Titov, 26, who calls himself "The Eagle," said goodnight by radio to his friends at 6:30 p.m. Moscow time Sunday, 9½ hours after blast-off time, and said he was settling down to sleep through the night.

Moscow radio said he awoke at 7 a.m. Monday—6 p.m. EST Sunday — after 8 hours sleep and that his craft was continuing its record spin around the planet.

His flight dwarfed the pioneer orbital exploit of his friend, Maj. Yuri A. Gagarin, who made one circuit of the earth last April 12 in one hour and 48 minutes.

"Good night, I am going to bed," Titov radioed before signing off for the night Sunday.

"Everything in the cabin is the same as before," he radioed. He said the cabin's automatically controlled temperature and pressure were excellent. This was after his sixth orbit.

"I wish you had it so good," Titov wisecracked. "All goes excellently. I want to wish you, Muscovites, good night."

"Now I am going to bed. You do what you want, but I am going to bed."

Moscow radio said two-way radio and television communication with the space ship would be temporarily suspended while Titov slept but that automatic devices would ensure continuous operation of the space craft.

Weightlessness appeared to be having no physical effect on the young astronaut. A communique said that even while he slept his pulse was a normal 58 beats per minute.

Active Day

It had been an active and exciting day for the spaceman. He had operated the controls of his five-ton craft, ate a three-course lunch, exchanged congratulations from space with Premier Khrushchev and Gagarin, ate supper and went through setting-up exercises, Moscow radio said.

In between times, Titov radioed greetings to Asia, Africa, Australia, Latin America and Europe as he flew over those continents. He also passed over the United States but there was no word he had extended greetings.

"I am Eagle, I am Eagle," the young air force pilot said at one point in what appeared to be sheer exultation.

About six hours after 125,000 miles of travel on the fringes of space, he radioed: "I feel excellent under the conditions of weightlessness."

Ground observers watching him on a TV circuit said at the time of this report he was smiling, Moscow radio reported.

A later broadcast reported that Titov ate supper during his sixth orbit and said all was well aboard as he started his seventh orbit, a trip carrying him over the East Coast of North America, Iceland, Scandinavia, Stalingrad, Iran, the Arabian Sea, the Indian Ocean and the Pacific.

Spectacular Technology

The spectacular display of Soviet technology, outclassing the two short U.S. sallies into space, set the stage dramatically for Khrushchev's speech Monday night on the dangerous dispute over Berlin.

Khrushchev likes to have a major Soviet accomplishment just ahead of an important pronouncement, and this second venture into space had been freely predicted in Moscow.

The flight will have an incalculable psychological effect on people of the non-Communist world and is expected to lend even greater emphasis to Khrushchev's words.

There had been speculation that powerful Soviet rocket boosters would put a larger, two-man space ship into orbit. But the official Tass announcement gave the weight as 4,731 kilograms—10,430 pounds—about the same weight as Gagarin's space craft.

On his circuits of the earth, Titov was reaching a maximum altitude of 257 kilometers—159.59 miles—and a minimum of 178 kilometers—110.5 miles, Tass said. Gagarin's orbit was more elongated, with a minimum height of 110 miles and a maximum of 188 miles. Titov's period of revolution is 88.6 minutes, Tass reported.

17 Orbits

(The Soviet ambassador in Canada, A. A. Aroutunian, told reporters in Nova Scotia the flight would continue for 17 orbits and end about 24 hours after takeoff. The ambassador was in Nova Scotia with Gagarin, who cut short his Canadian visit and headed home soon after he heard the news.)

The electrifying announcement of man's latest leap into space was broadcast over Moscow radio as the capital's citizens were leaving their crowded apartments to spend a sunny Sunday on the city's river beaches and broad avenues.

The announcement said the space ship Vostok II had been launched at 9 a.m. Moscow time—1 a.m. EST. Gagarin's pioneer ship was named Vostok.

The broadcast said the flight was intended to study the effects on a human being of prolonged orbital flight and descent to the earth's surface.

Another purpose was to study man's work capacity during a sustained period of weightlessness.

Titov's flight program included maneuvering his ship with manual controls and caletics. This indicated there was plenty of room in the space ship to move around.

Two radio and television circuits sent a steady flow of messages between the space ship and stations on earth.

Titov, the son of a schoolteacher, sent repeated reports he was feeling fine. On his second orbit, Titov sent Khrushchev a message telling him everything was proceeding normally.

The Soviet premier radioed back telling Titov: "All the Soviet people rejoice boundlessly in your successful flight and are proud of you."

Later, Titov sent back thanks for Khrushchev's "fatherly concern," adding: "I will carry out the assignment of the party and government without fail. Tell this to Nikita Khrushchev."

Tass estimated Titov passed over Washington at 5:54 p.m. Moscow time—9:54 a.m. EST.

The Tass announcement invited the people of the world to listen in on the transmissions.

Good Scholar

Soviet technicians on the ground watched Titov's reactions through the flight over a TV hook-up. His condition and the functioning of the ship's instruments were teletyped back to earth. The ship was reported to have rocketed into an orbit close to the calculated one.

A brief biography of the Soviet air force major said he was born in 1935 in the village of Verkhneye Zhilino of the Altai territory near the Soviet border with Mongolia and Communist China.

Titov learned to fly at the Stalingrad military pilots academy from 1955 to 1957. He was graduated with the rating of excellent.

He reported: "Pressure in the cabin constant, humidity 70 per cent temperature 20 degrees Fahrenheit; feeling completely comfortable."

Medical data transmitted to earth showed little effect on Titov because of the state of weightlessness. Pulse and respiration were given as practically the same as readings taken before Titov went into space. His ability to work was in no way impaired, the communique added.

Elwood Huffman, Penna. Game Commissioner Dies

C. ELWOOD Huffman, a member and past president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, died at his home in Marshalls Creek at 4:45 a.m. Saturday. He was 57.

Mr. Huffman was president and general manager of Mountain Lake House, Inc., a resort founded by his parents, Jay and Edith Huffman, in 1918.

He served two terms as president of the game commission and seven years as a member. He was particularly interested in preservation of game through land acquisition and breeding programs.

A native of Middle Smithfield Township, Mr. Huffman was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and received his bachelor of arts degree from Bucknell University in 1928. While in college, he managed the track team for two years and was a member of Phi Kappa Psi, national social fraternity.

He was secretary of the Smithfield Township school board; vice president of East Stroudsburg Area Joint School

Elwood Huffman

Bank and Trust Co.; former president of the Eastern Poconos Resort Assn.; a member of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau; a charter member of the Marshalls Creek Volunteer Fire Co.; a member and past president of the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club, and a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Coates Meadows.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Gordon and Miss Vivian Huffman, both of Marshalls Creek and Mrs. Lawrence Carron, Bogota, N. J.; four brothers, Lawton, J. Carlyle, Harvey W. and Norman L. Huffman, all of Marshalls Creek, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home. Rev. William F. Wunder and Rev. Harold C. Eaton will officiate and burial will be in Prospect Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Group Urges Opposition To Spending Can Not Equal Soviets

HARRISBURG (AP) — A citizens' committee Sunday urged legislators to oppose an $18.6 million spending proposal approved by the select Senate-House Committee on Education.

The group calls itself the Pennsylvania Citizens' Committee for Better Education. It is composed mostly of ex-members of the Governor's Education Committee which spent a year studying state school needs.

In a statement issued by its co-chairmen, Arthur B. Sinder, of Lancaster, and Duane E. Wilder, of Irvine, the citizens' unit said the proposal cleared by the select committee contains no solid guarantee that increased school subsidies would go to raising teacher salaries.

"This money need not be spent to improve teachers' salaries or otherwise improve instructional quality and no suggestions have been made in the proposal to raise teachers' salaries this year," the statement said. It added: "Although the bill provides extra subsidy for 'special purposes' it contains no assurance for expansion of these services in Pennsylvania nor does it provide state support for expanded special education or summer schools."

The select legislative committee has handed the House an over-all $25.1 million education improvement plan. It will be up for consideration when lawmakers return Monday.

Republicans, who had sought a recess to study public opinion, were expected to take up a proposed revenue program in caucus.

Minority Leader Albert W. Johnson, R-McKeesport, said he has distributed summaries of the education bills to GOP House members. A 2 per cent tax on dividends, rents, royalties and capital gains has been proposed to finance school reforms.

Other developments: Reapportionment — House Majority Leader Stephen McCann, D-Greene, has scheduled a news conference Monday at which he is expected to unveil a Democratic plan for reapportioning the state's 30 congressional seats into 27 districts. There was nearly solid agreement that the blueprint would retain six seats in Philadelphia. Republicans have said such a plan would be unacceptable.

Leon Koster, 75, Dies; Merchant, Civic Leader

LEON J. KOSTER, 75, of 112 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg, died yesterday at 7:35 p.m. in Monroe County General Hospital after an illness. He was admitted to the hospital yesterday morning.

He was born in New York City, the son of the late Abraham and Minnie Prentiss Koster.

Mr. Koster owned and operated Koster's Variety Store in East Stroudsburg for the past 30 years.

He was a member of East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association, Temple Israel, B'nai B'rith, Stroudsburg Lions Club, a member of the board of directors of the Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce, president of the East Stroudsburg Playground Recreation Committee, president of Monroe County Visiting Nurses Association and treasurer of Monroe County Tuberculosis Society.

Mr. Koster had been a resident of East Stroudsburg the past 31 years with prior residence in New York City.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Charniak Koster, at home; one son, Albert Koster, East Stroudsburg; two grandsons, Milton and David Koster, East Stroudsburg; one sister, Mrs. Ettie Heyman and one brother, Irving Koster, both of New York City.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Lantierman Funeral Home with Rabbi Bernhard Presler officiating.

Interment will be in Temple Israel Cemetery, Middle Smithfield Township. Viewing is today after 7 p.m. at the funeral home.

N.Y. Boy Drowns In Pike Co. Lake

AN EIGHT-year-old boy drowned in Lake Kemadobi, Delaware Township, Pike County, about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

State Police at Milford identified him as Walter Leonard Bielland, son of Walter L. and Bielland, son of Walter L. and Bielland.

da Bielland, 134 Senator St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

They said the boy was swimming with his sister and another youth when they discovered he was missing.

The screams of the youth's companions brought Donald C. Kammerer, 17, son of the owner of the lake, to the scene. He recovered the boy's body about 15 feet from shore in about eight feet of water.

Artificial respiration was begun and the Milford Fire Dept. rushed a resuscitator to the scene. The boy was pronounced dead by Dr. Jack Bullock at 5:55 p.m.

James Crellin, county coroner, ruled the death accidental. The body was released to the Stroyan and Crellin Funeral Home, Milford.

The Bielland boy and his family had rented a cottage at the lake for a week.

Tenn. Youths Charge Negro Picket Line

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Taunting white youths, throwing punches and eggs, charged an integrationist picket line here Saturday night. Club-swinging police broke up the melee, arresting 15 Negroes and white persons.

Two youths—one white, one Negro—were treated at a hospital for bumps and bruises.

The racial outburst occurred outside a supermarket chain store just before closing time. The predominantly Negro picket line, which had grown during the night to about 40 demonstrators, accused the store of discrimination by refusing to hire Negroes as clerks.

Two hours later, a singing, chanting crowd of about 75 Negroes demanding to be jailed marched on city police headquarters but no further arrests were made.

Negro leaders called a mass meeting at a Baptist church Sunday afternoon and declared another march would be made on police headquarters where one picket remained in custody by her own choice.

Police Inspector Carney Patterson said 10 of the 15 arrested had been members of the singing picket line. All but Diane Nash, 21, coordinating secretary of the Nashville Student Non-Violent Movement, posted $5 bond on disorderly conduct charges and gained release.

The Negro woman, police said, had insisted that she be arrested along with the others and refused to leave the jail.

Patterson said the clash was touched off by about half a dozen teenage white boys who said they happened to be driving by and spotted the pickets. They were armed with eggs, tomatoes and other missiles.

Stevenson Wants Space Controls

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — U. N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said Sunday that he and President Kennedy see the Soviet effort of getting a second man into orbit as pointing up the need for space control.

Stevenson said it sharpens the need for regulation of outer space to keep the arms race from spreading there.

Cardinal Dies In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Joseph Ernest Cardinal Van Roey, 87, Roman Catholic archbishop of Belgium died Sunday. It was the third death of a prince of the church within a week and reduced the College of Cardinals to 81 members.

Cardinal Van Roey had long suffered from a circulation ailment and was given the last rites of the church Saturday when his condition worsened.

Born Jan. 13, 1874, on a farm at Vorsele, he was ordained in 1897 and a few years later became assistant to World War I Cardinal Mercier.

West Will Negotiate 'Reasonably'

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four served notice on the Soviet Union Sunday night that they are willing to negotiate the Berlin problem but "only on a reasonable basis."

They said nothing the Soviets are saying and doing now through the East German Communists provides a reasonable approach.

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany spelled out their conditions for negotiations after a full-scale two-day review of the crisis.

They took no formal notice of the lifting of a second man into space by the Soviet Union, which took place during the windup of their deliberations.

The emergency conference decided to instruct a standing four-power committee based in Washington to search for a means of arriving at talks with the Soviets on grounds clear of abuse and threats.

A British spokesman said Moscow's notes to the four powers, threatening a separate peace with the East Germans and demanding a new status for isolated West Berlin, amount to "abuse which does not provide reasonable basis for negotiation."

To Collect Worshipers Reverend Drives Bus 40 Miles

By Peggy Bancroft

STERLING — The Biblical commandment, "Go ye . . ." is being obeyed by Rev. William Henwood in a strange way.

Four times each week for the past two years, he has climbed aboard a full-size school bus and driven nearly 40 miles, collecting children (and any adults who wish to ride), taking them to young people's meetings, Sunday School, morning worship, and evening service at Jericho Independent Church, Sterling Township.

The bus, a regulation school bus, was purchased by Rev. Henwood with his tithe money, and has been used exclusively for transportation for his parishioners.

The youngest passenger is nearly two years old, and there are some in their eighties. They come from West Sterling, Sterling, Calapoose or Hartford's Pond, Jericho, Zion, Greentown, South Sterling and Angels.

Rev. Henwood has, with the backing of some very faithful church members, rebuilt spiritually the little church of which it was written 11 years ago, "Its glory has departed, and soon the people and place that knew it once shall know it no more."

Not only do people and places still know it—a renewed church within the past four years—but it is growing until it is necessary to hold Sunday School for two classes within the school bus, itself, until provision can be made to build an addition to the church.

The foundations for the organization of Jericho Church were laid 125 years ago this year, in 1836, when services were held in the tavern of Capt. Phineas Howe.

Later, they were moved to the Howetown School, which was located on the property adjacent to the Jericho Church. Jericho and Howetown were familiar names for the same place in Sterling Township, Wayne County, in those years.

The school where the early services were held is gone, now, although daffodils planted in its front yard still bloom profusely each Spring. But the church, which was built in 1850, still stands.

DRIVING FORCE—Rev. William Henwood shakes hands on the steps of his church in Sterling Township. He drives 40 miles four times each week to collect worshippers to bring to his services at the Jericho Independent Church. The bus is a regulation school bus that Rev. Henwood bought with his tithe money. He has revitalized the little church by bringing people from Sterling and neighboring communities to the services.

Color Adds Spice To Patio Life

ADD spice to outdoor living by using color boldly on your patio. There are probably lots of paintable surfaces, and others can be installed for more comfort plus a brighter outlook.

Wood windows, doors, and shutters are likely painting prospects that can be added to a patio for function as well as flair. If you are planning to open your house to outdoor living, it can be done with a wall of windows and panel doors of ponderosa pine. Key the patio colors to those of the adjoining interior, using lighter, brighter tones for the outdoor decor.

Local building material dealers carry many styles of ponderosa pine doors and windows completely assembled and treated to withstand weather. They come ready to paint, stain or varnish.

Building Materials Result Of Research

TODAY'S home buyer gets a better house dollar for dollar and pound for pound than his father did, thanks to constant research to improve building materials and construction techniques.

Scientific research has resulted in such things as better interior and exterior paints that go on easier and last longer, and modern siding that never needs painting. Wood subject to weathering is treated chemically to make it more durable. Hardware operates better and lasts as long as the house itself.

Particularly important to the home buyer — or the home owner intent on remodeling — is the research that the asphalt roofing industry has carried on for decades.

ASPHALT SHINGLES being applied on this roof insure the home owner of trouble-free protection from harsh weather of all kinds because they are the result of years of testing and research.

certain ways to pure gold. Gold, when it comes out of the mine, is too soft to be used for any purpose. But alloyed with other metals, it makes lifetime wedding rings and watches. In the same way, asphalt makes better roofing when it is "alloyed" with mineral stabilizers.

Now Is The Time To Check Your Home Heating Plant

REMEMBER, when the first few cool days of fall arrive, you'll expect your heating system to produce heat! NOW is the time to have your heating plant checked for performance and condition.

Farmers Gain Efficiency Working Ford Tractors

FARMERS, contractors and other tractor owners can gain more efficiency in their work and do the jobs better due to development of a new clutchless-shift control called Select-O-Speed.

Raymond Price, Inc., Cresco, dealers for Ford Tractors in this area, report that Select-O-Speed is the greatest advance in tractor operation since the introduction of hydraulic control systems some years ago.

A graphic example of Select-O-Speed's value and efficiency is the fact that a tractor operator can plow 27 per cent more land in the same amount of time. This is accomplished by eliminating stops which allows one to plow at steady speeds.

The tougher the field and soil conditions the more Select-O-Speed pays off. Starting off a heavy load is accomplished with a low speed and allows shifting without hesitation in a smooth, unbroken line. You can downshift for grades of rough ground and up again on-the-go.

Solid Drive
Control is maintained by a simple flick of a finger on the control quadrant. Select-O-Speed provides "solid drive" in all speeds at all times . . . no power loss or wasted fuel due to slippage.

Ford's 10 speeds forward make it easy for you to choose the right combination of tractor speed and power for your job.

Get all the facts on the new Ford Select-O-Speed Tractors from Raymond Price, Inc., in Cresco. Your present tractor should more than cover the down payment.

READY FOR PRE-FINAL INSPECTION — Pocono Mountain Joint Junior-Senior High School in Swiftwater will be given a pre-final inspection by the architect, various contractors and school board members Thursday. Dr. Edward T. Horn Jr., president of the joint school committee, said last night, "The school will open as scheduled Sept. 6." Above view is of the new senior wing. (Coffman and Meyung Photo)

Monroe Is 53rd In Enrollment

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG—It may come as somewhat of a surprise to many a Monroe County parent, but in total number of students enrolled in schools in the county, Monroe County ranks 53rd of all 67 counties.

Institution District Has 65 On Rolls

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The State Department of Public Welfare yesterday reported only a "slight net change" in the number of Monroe County adults living in Monroe County Institution District facilities during the past year.

According to department records, the adult population in Monroe County institutions stood at 55 at the beginning of the fiscal year, while at the end of the year the adult population total rounded out to 65. The department noted that this trend was what it termed "quite general" in other counties throughout the state, ascertaining that in general "there has been little net change over the past several years."

Admissions during the year to Monroe County institutions totaled 30 adults, according to department records for the county, while discharges numbered 8. Deaths during the year totaled 12.

Post Wedding Party Leads To Slaying

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A post-wedding party at a home in the city's Kensington section ended today with a free-for-all brawl in which one young man was shot to death and another left in critical condition after being stomped in the head.

Twelve persons, one a woman, were arrested on charges ranging from murder down to breach of peace.

Police said a slurring remark by one man to the girl friend of another led to the brawl which spilled into the street. Dead on arrival at a hospital of a bullet wound in the chest was Stephen Buska, 19, whom investigators said was AWOL from the Navy.

In critical condition at Episcopal Hospital was Thomas Manley, 24. Neither was involved in the original argument but took sides, police said.

Charged with murder was Francis Kelly, 19. Charged with aggravated assault on Manley was William Becker, 16, also not involved in the original argument.

Cancel Meeting Due To Death

THE meeting of the Recreation Committee of the East Stroudsburg Playground has been canceled for tonight due to the death of Leon Koster.

Funeral Notices

KOSTER, Leon J., of East Stroudsburg, Aug. 6, 1961, aged 75. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services Tuesday, Aug. 8 at 2 p.m. from the Lanterman Funeral Home. Interment in the Temple Israel Cemetery, Middle Smithfield Township. Viewing Monday after 7 p.m. Friends may make donations to Monroe County Tuberculosis Society, East Stroudsburg Playground or Temple Israel Building Fund.

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG—It may come as somewhat of a surprise to many a Monroe County parent, but in total number of students enrolled in schools in the county, Monroe County ranks 53rd of all 67 counties.

This was indicated yesterday in the supplemental statistical report of the Governor's Special Study Committee on Education now before the Legislature.

The report shows that the total number of resident pupils in the county during the 1958-59 school year used in the detailed and exhaustive report rounded out to 7,430 pupils, with an average daily attendance for the year of 7,201 pupils.

A breakdown between elementary and secondary pupils in Monroe County shows the county with 4,565 students enrolled in elementary schools of the county, with an average daily attendance record for the school year of 4,244 pupils.

On the secondary school front in the county, resident pupils attending schools in the county numbered 2,865 during the year, with an average daily attendance of 2,957 pupils.

Quads Fed, Bathed In 2 Shifts

MALVERN, Pa. (AP)—A mother with quadruplets often needs four hands.

But Mrs. Arlene Cutlar of Malvern, who had four daughters last March 15, doesn't have four hands, so she has learned to double up, feeding and bathing two at a time.

The four tiny girls, which more than doubled the size of the William Cutlar family, are quite a handful for the attractive young mother.

She said that by doubling up at feeding and bathing time she can take care of them alone for a day or two. "After that I need help."

Her mother came to live with her. Now at feeding and bathing time, other relatives or neighbors stop by to help.

The Cutlars have two other children, William IV, 4, and Sherree Mae, 3.

Mrs. Cutlar said the other two don't seem jealous, "although they have been a little high-pitched with all the excitement. They don't seem aware that getting four sisters at one time is unusual, however," she said.

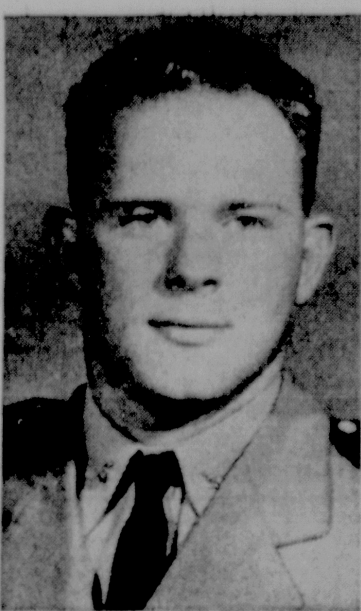

When the quads were born prematurely, they were very tiny. However they are gaining weight rapidly. Today their weights are: Annette 11 pounds, 12 1/2 ounces; Bernadette, 10 pounds, 12 ounces; Celeste, 11 pounds, 8 ounces, and Denise, 11 pounds, 11 1/2 ounces.

Mrs. Cutlar objects to calling her new set of daughters quads. "Please don't call them quads," she said. "Each one is a little personality."

"Annette is the chubbiest, Bernadette is the slowpoke, Celeste is the calmest, and Denise—she's a little rascal."

John J. Kintz
John Kintz Undergoes Sea Training

UNDERGOING three weeks of amphibious warfare training at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, Norfolk, Va., is midshipman second class John J. Kintz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob E. Kintz, of Stroudsburg, Pa.

The busy schedule for the 750 midshipmen from various eastern colleges and universities includes classes on techniques of amphibious warfare and practical work in the use of amphibious equipment.

Four days will be spent aboard ship conducting drills and an amphibious assault to top off the training.

J.F. McCarthy Participates In Exercise

PARTICIPATING in Exercise "Tail Wind" involving aircraft and 21 Navy ships off the Coast of California while serving aboard the destroyer USS Edson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCarthy of Stroudsburg.

The five-day exercise from July 24 to 28, featured an attack aircraft carrier, four carriers, destroyers and replenishment ships in a fast carrier striking force maneuver opposing shore-based patrol planes, medium jet bombers and submarines.

Included in the exercise was a full scale replenishment of the task force at sea by fleet oilers, ammunition and store ships.

Vice Admiral Charles L. Melson, commander of the U. S. First Fleet, scheduled "Tail Wind" and participated in the exercise from his flagship, the heavy cruiser USS Helena. Rear Admiral Charles T. Booth II, commander of Carrier Division Five, conducted the exercise from the aircraft carrier USS Ranger.

PMF Opposes Longer Trailers

HARRISBURG (AP)—The AAA Pennsylvania Motor Federation has served notice that it will fight any attempt to permit longer tractor-trailers on state highways.

The state now restricts the length of such vehicles to 50 feet. A bill before the Senate would raise the legal length of truck trailers from 35 to 40 feet but would retain the 50-foot limit on the combined length of tractor and trailer.

In a weekend statement, PMF

Kunkletown Soldier In Germany

ARMY PFC Marvin T. Borger, son of Tilghman A. Borger, Route 1, Kunkletown, is participating with other personnel from the 3rd Armored Division's 6th Artillery in a four-week field training exercise in Grafenwohr, Germany. The unit's phase of the exercise is scheduled to end August 14.

During the exercise members of the division are receiving training in military skills including chemical, biological and radiological warfare, 35 rocket launcher firing, village fighting and night firing.

A truck driver in the artillery's Service Battery in Gelnhausen, Borger entered the Army in May 1960, completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., and arrived overseas last October.

The 24-year-old soldier is a 1956 graduate of Polk Township High School in Kresgeville and was employed at the R & R Toy Factory in Pen Argyl before entering the Army.

Mother, Child Killed In Wreck

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An automobile truck collision near here Saturday killed a mother and her daughter and injured three other members of the Wayne County family.

Mrs. Kenneth Polley of Lake Ariel, R.D. 3 and 10-year-old Sandra were killed in the collision on Route 22 in North Fayette Twp.

Mrs. Polley's 40-year-old husband, driver of the car, suffered a concussion and thigh and skull injuries. He was reported unconscious and in critical condition at Ohio Valley Hospital in nearby McKees Rocks.

Two other daughters, Linda, 1, and Carla, 6, were listed in fair condition at the hospital.

Scott Sees Passage Of Trailer Bill

SEN. William Z. Scott, R-Carbon, said over the weekend that he feels Republicans have enough votes to pass a highly controversial 40-foot trailer bill as it is.

Philadelphia Democrats are seeking to put through a compromise version of the measure. The present bill is aimed at helping Pennsylvania's economy through speeding industrial transportation through and around the state.

Scott added: "I heard yesterday (Saturday) morning that the governor's office is willing to compromise. But I would be very cautious in considering any such compromise because I am of the opinion that we have enough votes to pass the bill as it stands."

"If this compromise is just a maneuver by the governor and Jim Clark to save face then I want no part of it. If it has merit then I'll be glad to take a look at it."

Scott referred to James P. Clark, Democrat leader and Philadelphia truck operator, who has fought the bill ever since it was introduced.

Little Merit

Referring to the compromise, Scott said:

"Personally I doubt that it has much merit. I haven't heard all the compromises offered but one calls for putting the effective date back from Sept. 1 to Jan. 1, 1962. That is ridiculous."

"If Clark knows he is due to lose out, the obvious thing is for him to work for such a compromise as a face-saving device. But I am positive we have enough votes to pass the bill in its present form."

"For one thing I know the governor is catching the dickens from all over the state for the stand he has taken against the bill. It looks like he is in a heck of a spot and knows it. He feels his position is untenable and so he's trying for this compromise to make it look as though he forced the issue."

2 Accidents Reported In East Borough

NO ONE was injured in two accidents investigated by East Stroudsburg police Saturday.

At 12:05 a.m., a car driven by Martha E. Fenimore, 40, Silver Gray Inn, Swiftwater, struck a stop sign at Starbird and S. Courtland Sts. Damage was slight.

At 9:40 a.m., cars driven by Donna B. Keesler, 28, of 78 N. Courtland St., and Paul W. Freedy, 44, Spring St., Belvidere, N. J., collided on N. Courtland St. Damages to both vehicles were estimated at $450.

Catholics Thank God There IS a Purgatory

You may not agree with this age-old Catholic belief.

You may contend, as many do, that Purgatory is not mentioned in the Bible. You may have heard that it is nothing more than a cunning fable, designed by the Catholic priesthood to frighten and deceive the faithful. You may have been told that the Apostles and the early Christians did not believe in Purgatory.

It is true, of course, that the Bible does not mention the word Purgatory, any more than it does numerous other words and terms commonly accepted by all Christians. But it does clearly indicate that there is such a place of satisfaction for sin and the temporal punishment due to it after death but before the general judgment.

"Fire shall try every man's work, of what sort it is," wrote St. Paul (1 Corinthians 3: 13-15) "... and even though his work shall be 'burned,' the man himself 'shall be saved, yet so as by fire.' Paul himself observed the custom of praying for the dead: 'The Lord grant unto him (Onesiphorus) to find mercy of the Lord in that day' (2 Timothy 1: 18). The 'fires' that try a man's work are certainly not to be found on earth or in heaven, and the fires of hell do not save. Would Paul have prayed for Onesiphorus, then dead, if he believed the soul of his departed co-worker was beyond help?

Millions of people departed this life with no serious sins on their souls, and we know (Proverbs 24: 16) that even the just man has his small failings. God would not deny them heaven, nor would He condemn them to everlasting punishment. Therefore, as nothing defiled can enter heaven (Revelations 21: 27) there must be a place where these lesser sins can be cleansed.

But proof as to Purgatory is not limited to the Bible. The fathers and doctors of the Church speak repeatedly of the practice of the first Christians of praying for the dead. Tertullian, second century, admonished "the faithful wife to pray for the soul of her deceased husband." The fourth century historian Eusebius, St. Cyril of Jerusalem, St. Ephrem, St. Ambrose and St. John Chrysostom all spoke of the efficacy of prayers for the departed souls. The latter, in fact, said such supplication was "ordained by the Apostles."

All the liturgies of the Church are replete with appeals for God's mercy upon the souls of the departed. Inscriptions on the walls of the catacombs of the first Christian era voice similar prayers. It would not be necessary to plead for those in heaven—futile to pray for those in hell. So there must be a place in between, which Catholics call Purgatory.

And for Catholics, death would be a much more frightening prospect if there were no Purgatory, for all who go there may be tried "as by fire," but all are assuredly saved. If you would like to know more about the doctrine of Purgatory, write for Free Pamphlet KC-14. It will be mailed in a plain wrapper, nobody will call on you.

County's Farm Income Exceeded $3,300,000

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County farmers during the past year wound up with total cash receipts from the sale of their agricultural products slightly over that of the preceding year, a survey by the State Department of Agriculture indicated yesterday.

Total cash receipts for Monroe County farmers last year amounted to $3,359,000—as compared with $3,133,000 in the previous year.

The sale of dairy products proved to be the biggest income producer on the farm front in the county, according to department records, accounting for income totaling $1,102,000.

Other income for Monroe County farmers during the year was made up of $798,000 from poultry and poultry products; $483,000 from horticultural specialties; $362,000 from vegetables and potatoes; $320,000 from field crops; $250,000 from meat animals sold alive; $22,000 from miscellaneous livestock products; $14,000 from forest products on the farm, and $8,000 from fruits.

Government payments to Monroe County farmers during the past year rounded out to $105,000 — up from the preceding year's $99,700.

Death Takes Toll

In the death of C. Elwood Huffman, of Marshalls Creek, Monroe County has been shocked by the passing of its fourth well known citizen in less than a week's time.

What makes it so shocking is the fact that the eldest of the four men was only 60 years old. Two were 57 and one was only 52.

Last Monday, death claimed John M. Price, 52, of Stroudsburg, a paraplegic for 18 years due to an accident that occurred while he was in the armed forces. Mr. Price's severe handicap did not deter him from living a full and fruitful life. The many services he performed for others should stand out as an inspiration for those with lesser or no handicaps.

Monday also saw the passing of Don H. Rayburn, 57, a former executive with Pocono Fabricators Inc. and a former classified advertising manager for The Daily Record. Mr. Rayburn was active in a number of organizations and was well known in the community; consequently, he will be missed by his large circle of friends.

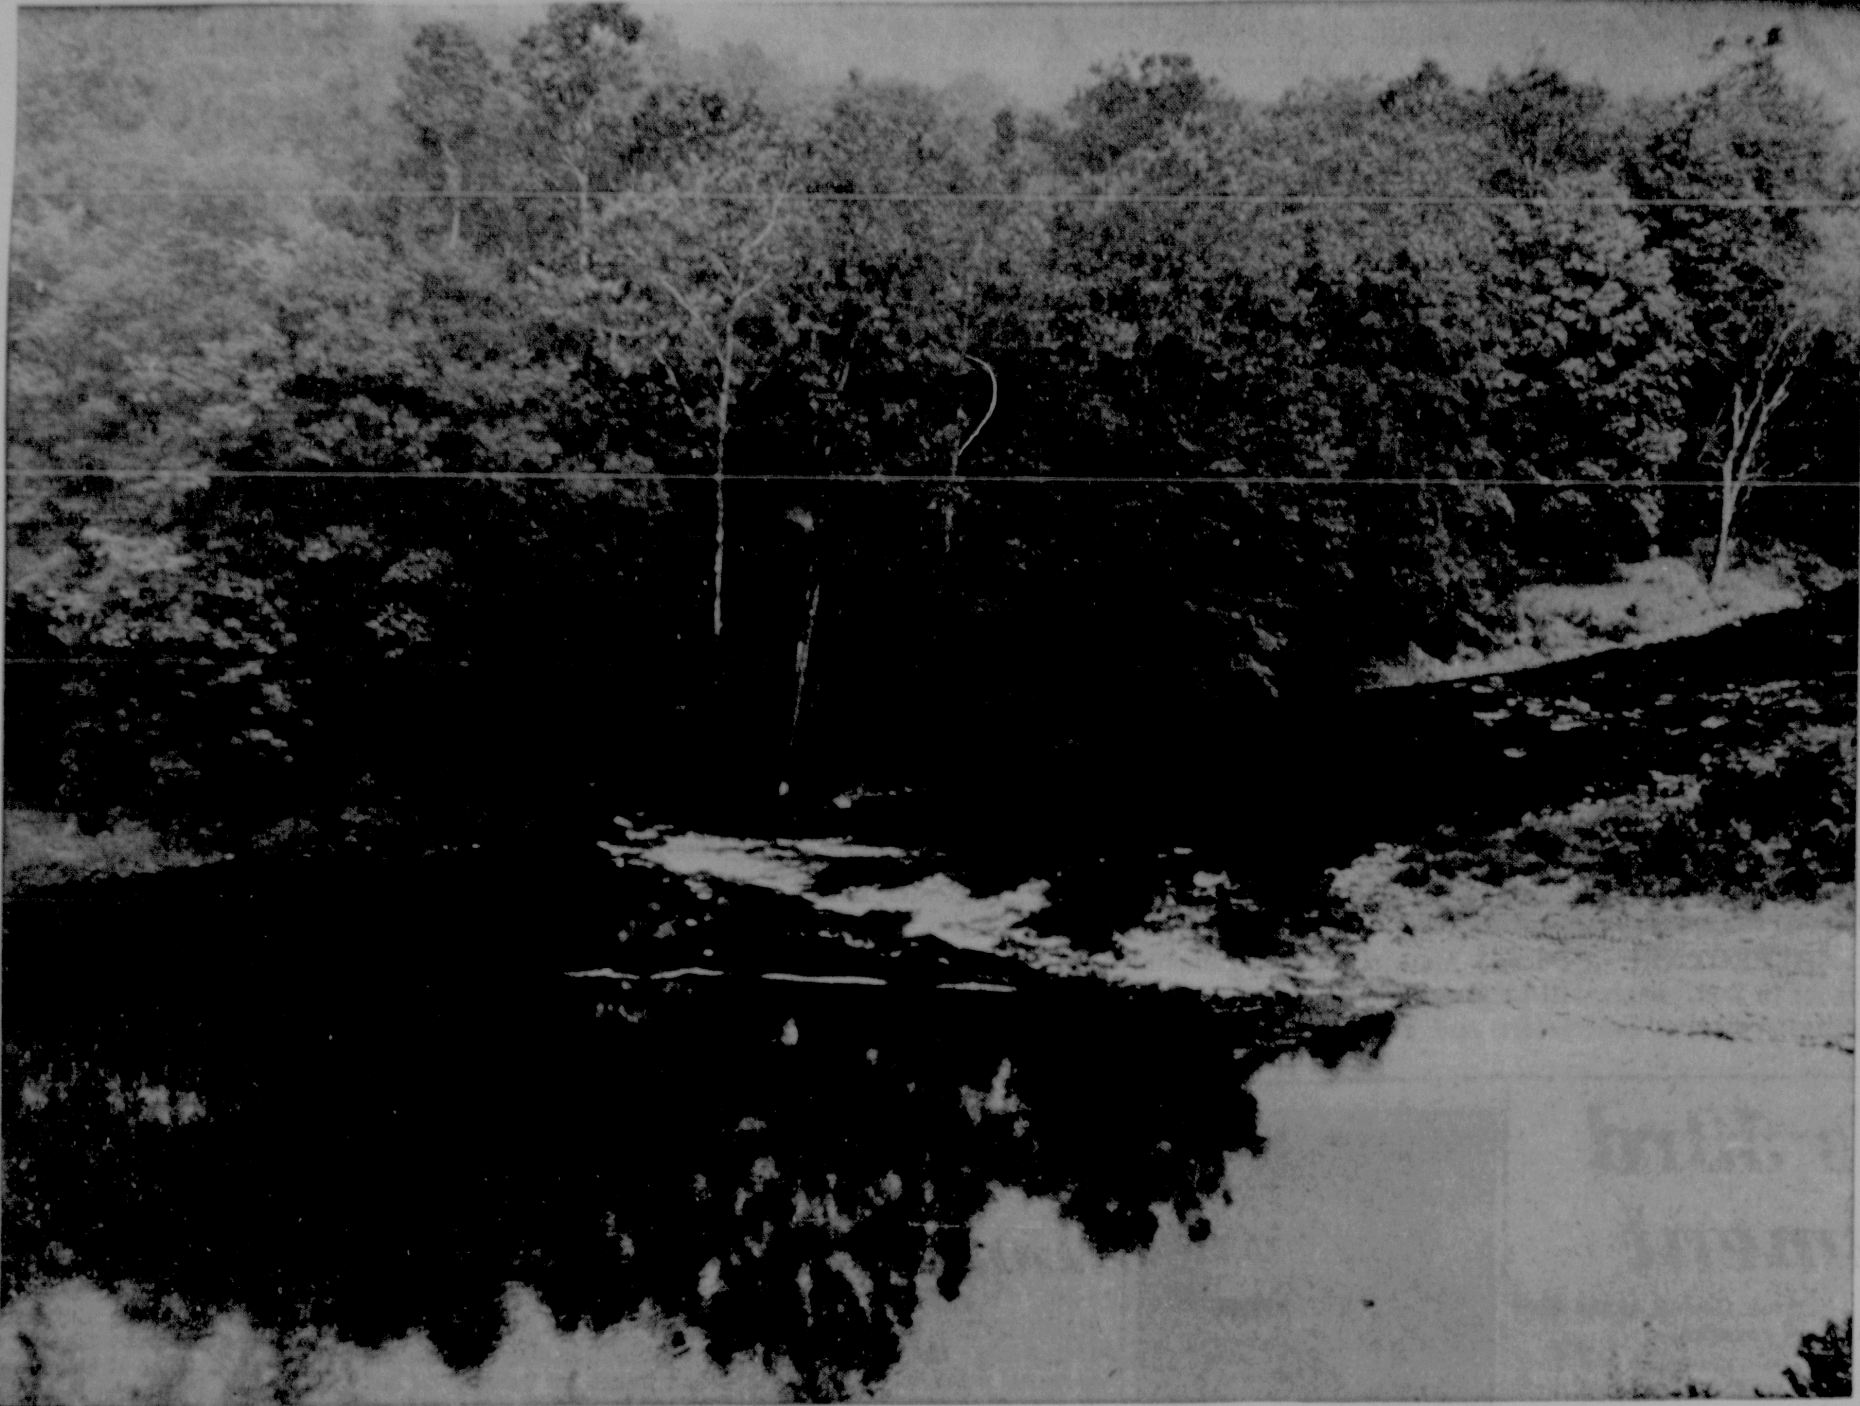

The death last Thursday of Grant W. Nitrauer, 60, a Stroudsburg attorney for 31 years, came without warning and as a shock to his many acquaintances in the county. Mr. Nitrauer will be remembered by hundreds of people as a former teacher and athletic coach at Stroudsburg High School. An ardent golfer, he was one of those responsible for reorganizing the Glen Brook Country Club in 1945.

Another man with varied interests who will be missed greatly in the community was C. Elwood Huffman, who died Saturday. He achieved his greatest fame as president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, due mainly to the emphasis he placed on game conservation.

But he was also noted for a great many other things such as being the operator of Mountain Lake House at Marshalls Creek. Mr. Huffman's countless activities included an active role in Democratic politics and a prominent place in the affairs of the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club, the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and the Eastern Pocono Resort Assn.

All of these men have contributed in various ways to the betterment of their community. Their deaths leave a void that will be difficult to fill.

Social Security Changes

It is getting so that in just about every session of Congress, new changes are made in our Social Security program—the nation's compulsory retirement insurance system. . . .

It is highly doubtful if the Congress can continue to make changes in the Social Security program without either endangering the insurance program or increasing contributions.

While increasing the contribution rate seems like an easy answer, it also holds some dangers. In the first place, there should be some grave doubts as to how much of the national personal income should be set aside in a compulsory insurance program. . . .

And then there is a concept of Social Security that, perhaps, could be moved in another direction. If we allow workers to retire early at reduced retirement benefits, could possibly we increase the benefits if they should work longer than 65?

At the present time, the actuated scale does not necessarily provide that those who have contributed the most will receive maximum benefits as payments are provided on a certain number of quarters, not particularly for a lifetime.

The major aim of the Social Security program as we know it today is to provide retirement income. We should not lose sight of that goal and burden down the Social Security program with fringe programs and additional costs which could affect retirement payments.

Certainly in its first 26 years, the Social Security program has been successful and it can continue to be successful as long as we adhere to sound insurance principles.

It should not, however, become a catch-all for all types of additional benefits if these benefits would jeopardize the original concept of the program. . . .

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Not Really A Hoax

The British taste of humor is pungent and daring but rarely has it reached such perfection as the British Broadcasting Corporation perpetrated. They made a composer, Piotr Zak, said to be a Pole and they played a composition by the aforesaid Zak, entitled "Mobile for Tape and Percussion."

No such Zak exists or ever existed. No Polish composer bears such a name. The name is phoney from every standpoint, just as the so-called music is phoney. B.B.C. was having lots of fun and did not get caught.

According to Susan Bradshaw, an employee of the B.B.C. music division, she and Hans Keller, another employee, pulled off the hoax with official approval. "We dragged together all the instruments we could find and went around the studio banging them."

I wish I might have heard their satire. I am sure that it could not be very different from some of the modern composers who seek to prove not that they can make music but rather that they have been to school and have learned instrumentation.

They established beyond doubt that they know the difference between a tympanum and a bass drum, to say nothing of the difference between a bassoon and a bass fiddle.

Having established their great knowledge of the mechanics of music-making devices, these composers need ideas, emotions, sincerity to put together something that can be remembered and repeated. This takes not only intelligence but maturity.

This, of course, does not come readily. Wagner, for instance, wrote purposeful music. He had a goal, an ideal, a passion. He revised the ancient traditions of the Teutonic peoples, just as Verdi inspired revolutionary nationalism as an Italian ideal.

If such composers dragged together a bunch of instruments and just made noise, they would undoubtedly have done as well as the present noise-makers who only make so much noise to cover up their poverty of ideas.

But the B.B.C. folks did not lack ideas, just as Wu Ting-fang knew what he was doing when he invented chop suey. It is said that when he was ambassador to the United States, some callers asked him if he could concoct some Chinese food for them. They did not know that no Chinese gentleman goes into a kitchen and that their request was vulgar.

But Wu Ting-fang was no vulgaritarian. Politely, he went into his kitchen, took all the left-overs in the ice-box, threw them into a pot, covered them with soy bean oil, and a little of this and that for flavoring, heated the stuff and called it chop suey.

Perhaps that is how some ancient Hungarian invented goulash or some Frenchwomen discovered the possibilities of bouillabaisse. (The same tale is told of Li Hung-chang.)

B.B.C. manufactured a musical Chop Suey, without meaning, without form or taste, a confusion of sound and the music critics listened attentively and wrote learned reviews. It is like Fritz Kreisler's writing wonderful melodies for the violin and announcing that he had found a new manuscript by Paganini.

So piece after piece has appeared. "Paganini—arranged by Kreisler." But it took the critics years to discover the hoax. I believe it was Olin Downes who finally discovered that Kreisler had arranged himself.

I once knew a pianist who loved to improvise and would say that it was by Tchaikowsky or some other Russian and no one could help him at it, much to his delight.

I sit at concerts and watch the stern, concentrated faces of young people trying to understand what the moderns are trying to say when they write notes which only end up in noises. Then it is over. The conductor has exercised himself.

He has had a work-out. He has pulled notes out of instruments, as though the players could not get their sounds out of their fiddles and horns unless he, the conductor, moved arms and shoulders and even legs to distraction.

Then one watches the ancient one, Montoux, conduct the same music without disturbing the audience and somehow it all sounds more beautiful. For one listens to the music rather than he devotes himself to the gyrations of a conductor.

I have learned to close my eyes so that I do not see the maestro on the podium act out his part.

The B.B.C. is to be congratulated for its sense of satire. It is needed to restore musical credence to society.

The Allen-Scott Report

Permanent Buildup

Washington — That call-up alert of some 28,000 National Guard and Reserve airmen is just the beginning.

In each of the next three months the draft will be tripled to at least 20,000. It's possible the first big increase in September will be as high as 25,000, depending on volunteer enlistments in the next few weeks.

Behind these expansions of military manpower is a far-reaching basic decision. The strength of the armed forces is to be rebuilt to a high level and kept there indefinitely; that is, it's to be "permanent."

President Kennedy and his top military chiefs have decided that it is crucially essential for three key reasons: Russia's steadily growing military and industrial might; intensifying worldwide aggressiveness; and Red China's open espousal of the concept that World War III is inevitable.

This underlying Administration policy means an annual defense budget of around $48 billion. That stupendous total could go higher, depending on what happens in Berlin, Cuba, South Vietnam, Iran and other smoldering danger points. But a $48 billion defense budget is a certainty for the next several or more years.

This will have telling impact on virtually every aspect of the national economy. The President and his Treasury and economic advisers are counting on that to largely pay for these vast military expenditures. They confidently expect a big upsurge in tax revenues in the next six months.

However, the President will definitely ask Congress next year for increases in corporation and excise taxes. In the works — He was on the verge of doing that when he made his grim Berlin crisis telephone call.

But he was dissuaded at the last moment by his Council of Economic Advisers with the argument that a tax hike at this time would be a serious drag on business recovery.

What Congress does this session on plugging a number of loopholes depends on what the House does.

If it votes this Administration-advocated legislation within the next few weeks, there is a fair chance the Senate will take it up. Otherwise, it will have to go over to 1962.

Senator Harry Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Finance Committee, says three weeks will be required to consider such a House bill. That means it will have to reach his committee very soon to be acted on before Congress adjourns.

Right now, the outlook is not promising.

One backstage reason is that the Senate Democratic Policy Committee is now aiming for a win-odds by Labor Day.

This unannounced decision was reached at a private meeting with the chairman of key Senate committees. After a detailed canvass of the legislative situation this group of top leaders agreed to seriously try for adjournment by Labor Day.

They are certain the House can do that. But the Senate is a different matter.

However, Congress has been in session nearly eight months, and once adjournment steam builds up, a great deal of legislation can be transacted in a short time.

That's an old, old story on Capitol Hill. Education compromise—Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., is proposing a compromise aid-to-education bill limited to school construction and for so-called impacted areas. He is breaking this strident-down version of the Administration's embattled $2.5 billion program as a means of getting around the Rules Committee where that measure has been stalled for weeks.

Under the law as it stands now, whether a county shall operate its own health department is determined by a referendum on the question. To get the referendum on the ballot and before the voters, the law at present requires that one per cent of the registered voters in the county shall sign a petition calling for a referendum.

So far so good. So far it's exclusively up to the local folks to decide whether they want such a set-up.

The idea of establishing a local health department incidentally, has met with such overwhelming success over the years that today of the 67 counties in the state—just four counties (Allegheny, Bucks, Erie and Philadelphia) have their own health departments!

There was a fifth county on the agenda—Butler County—but the health department apparently was such a success there too that the local folks in Butler County last year voted their county health department plan out of existence!

The Butler County incident brings up the main point of the question posed at the beginning of this column: "Do folks at home know what they want—or don't they?"

When the county health department law was first enacted, there was no provision for eliminating or doing away with the plan once it was established.

This in itself is almost too fantastic to believe—yet it actually happened that way. There was no appeal—and yet the basic concept of government (democratic form of government, that is) is based on the "appeal" system.

Fortunately this "no appeal" condition was corrected by the Legislature in 1959 when it passed "corrective" legislation providing that a county health department could be erased—again by the one per cent petition and referendum route, with the ballot question stating simply: shall the county health department be continued or discontinued.

On this point the voters of Butler County knocked out their local health department last year.

The point is that what happened in Butler County could happen elsewhere — admittedly a somewhat "shocking" situation for do-gooder groups who always know "what's best for the people" for some reason better than the people themselves!

To eliminate this "shocking" condition, these do-gooders saw to it that legislation was introduced in the current session of the Legislature that — and get this, local folks — once again would eliminate the "appeal" provision of the county health law.

In other words, once you voted for your county health department it was set.

Gen. Ridgeway agreed to resume truce talks with the Reds if they gave their word to keep armed troops out of Kaesong.

The Pennsylvania Story

Local Rights

By Mason Denison Harrisburg—Do folks at home know what they want—or don't they? (Part One)

On the surface at least, this might well seem to be a most absurd question — the obvious answer being: "of course we do— isn't that the way democratic form of government is set up?"

Well, then, all you democratic little chickadees, turn your eyes toward your elected representatives here in the Legislature on Capitol Hill, check the point we're going to bring up, and then decide whether you are—or are not — running your own show at home.

Under state law at present, individual counties have the right to set up their own local "county health department"—that is, to operate administer and maintain their own health services program.

Under the law as it stands now, whether a county shall operate its own health department is determined by a referendum on the question. To get the referendum on the ballot and before

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., has had to go to unusual lengths to bring witnesses before the Banking Committee to testify for his controversial "truth in lending" bill.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., chairman, has refused to pay witnesses' expenses on economy grounds. So Douglas is doing that out of his own pocket. This has compelled Senator Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, leading the fight against this legislation, to do the same thing for his witnesses.

Sen. Thurston Morton, Ky., former Republican National Chairman, is up-in-arms over foreign imports of bourbon — which he darkly views as spurious. To strike a resounding blow against these false whiskey imports, Morton has introduced a resolution denouncing them and calling on the government to "take appropriate action to deter and prevent persons outside the United States from designating whiskey as 'bourbon whiskey' and to prohibit the importation into the United States of such whiskey."

An outdoor basketball court was under construction at the East Stroudsburg playground.

Chief of Police Fred Decker, Delaware Water Gap, praised a young New Jersey truck driver for running his truck into a tree to avoid striking a car with three girls, all in their twenties, after they had run through a stop sign in the borough.

Congress began its investigation of the dismissal of 90 cadets from the military academy at West Point.

Gen. Ridgeway agreed to resume truce talks with the Reds if they gave their word to keep armed troops out of Kaesong.

A bandit held up Lewis Heiney and Ralph Reinholds, bank messengers from the First-Stroudsburg National Bank, and robbed them of $76,000. The messengers were on their way to the Stroudsburg Post Office, one block from the bank, when the daring daylight robbery occurred.

Police and FBI agents immediately set up a dragnet over a four county area to locate the bandit.

It was later learned that the bandit fled by crossing the old Erie Railroad bridge in Minisink Hills and escaped in a car waiting on the New Jersey side of the Delaware River.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

The Broadway-Hollywood People

The world of stardom is not bounded by gold and glory. It is replete with shadows and terrors.

Soon after Marion Brando attained stardom he was gnawed by melancholy. The depression caused week-long migraines. Eventually, the misery of success drove him to consult a psychiatrist. After lengthy therapy the star confided to friends: "I haven't found happiness, but I've lost chronic misery." Currently, Brando is healthy, wealthy, famous and successful. And what is his big ambition? He declares: "I'd like to work as a dishwasher in a small town for six months. I'd like to satisfy my curiosity about people. Being a movie star curdles your perspective, so you don't see people how they really live and work."

The idea that critics have sadistic leanings and enjoy torturing their victims is pure fantasy. Most reviewers are stagestruck. They adore the theater and enjoy seeing it thrive with superior productions. Some reviewers, you may be shocked to learn, have hearts of marshmallow. As a matter of fact, critics John Chapman and Robert Coleman have confessed that writing thorny reviews upsets them and makes it difficult for them to sleep serenely. And most startling of all: A recent mag mag place disclosed that critic Walter Kerr is henpecked!

Being stagestruck is generally a malady that starts early in life and endures a lifetime. As an example of the foregoing there's Richard Rodgers. He was once asked why he attended Columbia U. He replied simply: "The varsity show used to run every year for a week in the Hotel Astor ballroom with a professional orchestra. I intended to write it. What better incentive could you have for going to college? Columbia was obviously the only place to go."

About his academic work at college Rodgers is succinct: "whatever books I didn't have to open."

There are no triumphs without sacrifices and the road to stardom is frequently a tortuous path. When Alec Guinness attended dramatic school he lived on six dollars a week. By eating one meal a day, usually baked beans on toast, he managed to survive. And when he went searching for acting jobs he walked the streets of London barefoot in order to save leather.

Today he earns as much as $25,000 a week.

Diligence is the auxiliary of success. Stardom is evolved from perspiration as cool as the origin of diamonds. We give you the Lunts for illustrative purposes. They worry and work on each new show as if it were their first. Rehearsals begin ten months before the play opens. And the rehearsals are intensive. Sometimes they re-do a single scene twenty times. And after it's over, one will say to the other: "No, darling, that just isn't right. Let's try it again." Out of such hard work comes artistry.

What is a trouper? It encompasses complete dedication. It means the ability to walk through a storm and see sunshine. Ethel Barrymore was a trouper—and what a trouper! The theater was her life and love. When she was 64 she played forty-one night stands and relished every moment. Miss Barrymore later said: "I never know what some people mean when they complain about the rigors on the road. Lord, they must be very faded ladies, indeed. If they mind touring! Oh, I look forward to it — the drafts, dressing rooms, the rats, everything. It's all part of it."

partment if you decided you didn't like it after all and wasn't worth the salt the social workers insisted it was in the first place, you're stuck with it forever!

That bill passed the House last week to the credit of the gents in the Senate, went down to defeat in the upper chamber.

You folks still have your "local rights"—but on the county health plan you almost lost 'em!

"Wanted—competent secretary to take dictation. I think I'll apply. By the way—what's dictation?"

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

News, like accidents, seems to run in series. This weekend the emphasis seemed to be on age—chronological age, that is.

Sometimes it seems that maybe the hardest part of life after 90 must be the birthdays themselves with their attendant flood of visitors — some legitimate, some just curious, who come to call as if they were visiting a monument or historical point of interest.

People have a sense of awe about great age, compounded of admiration for the physical tenacity and spiritual energy necessary to survive the succession of days, years and decades, and a historical sense of a living link with the past.

When Fred Messerle was born in Switzerland in 1863, his country was surrounded by threats of war as Prussia and Austria seized Schleswig-Holstein from Denmark. He was a year old when the Red Cross was founded in Geneva.

Mrs. Sally Lansinger, for another instance, was 105 years old yesterday. When she was a year old, Buchanan was president, the first big financial panic swept the nation, and the Dred-Scott decision was handed down. She was three when John Brown raided Harper's Ferry and five when the Civil War started.

Or take it another way. Sally Sigafus (as she was then) was a young lady — 19 years old when a Stateford neighbor, George LaBar Jr., died. George, according to the LaBar family history presented Saturday, was born in 1763 and died at the age of 112. Within the lives of just those two, you can embrace the whole history of the United States.

The trouble is that people are not historical monuments. The great sweep of history flows over and around them and often transplants them but the things they remember are not world wars and political changes but the high moments of their own personal history — the time the barn burned, what their first grade teacher's name was, what they were when they were married, and where their favorite rocker was in their first house.

I don't know quite what the moral of all this might be. Maybe that we'll remember August 7, 1961, not as the day when man slept his first night away in outer space, but as the day the youngest nephew caught an 18-inch bass in the Delaware. I hope.

Mrs. Lansinger Celebrates 105th Birthday

Portland — Mrs. Sally Lansinger who was born at Stateford on Aug. 6, 1856 celebrated her birthday very near the place of her birth, at the Barto Nursing Home in Portland.

Born Sally Sigafus she has many relatives in the area and lived there for many years. Her first husband was Josiah Paff, also a native of the area. After his death she married Prof. J. H. Lansinger, retired member of the faculty of Millville Normal school.

Many relatives called to pay their respects over the weekend and the staff of the nursing home had a small party in her honor on Sunday.

The Baby's Named!

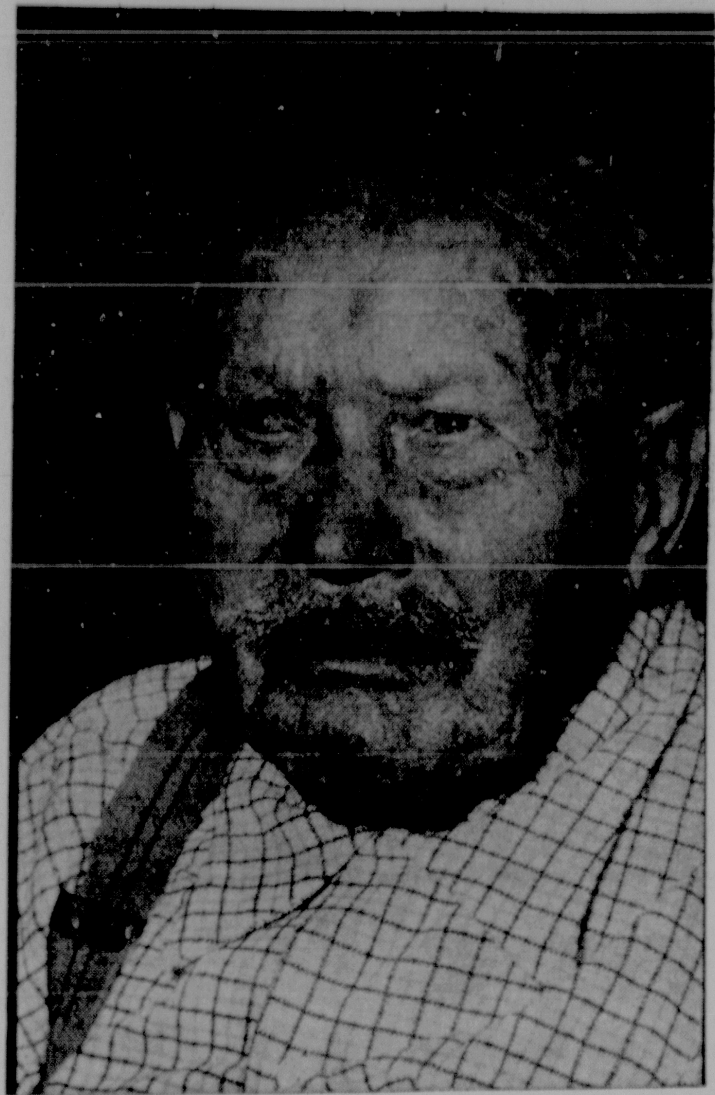

THE DAILY RECORD congratulates the parents and introduces to its readers the following new babies:

Marc Gary Feinsilber
Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Feinsilber announce the birth of their first child, a son, born on July 27 at the General Hospital. He weighed 5 pounds 12 1/2 ounces and has been named Marc Gary.

Mrs. Feinsilber is the former Joline Green, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Green of Scranton. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Feinsilber, 1805 Wallace St., Stroudsburg.

Beth Kaye Wallingford
A daughter, Beth Kaye, was born to Mr. and Mrs. James D. Wallingford, of Stroudsburg RD 3, on July 29 at the General Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces. They have three sons, James Lane, 9; Gregory, 8; and Mark, 6.

Mrs. Wallingford is the former Madalyn Butz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Butz, Reeders. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wallingford, of Stroudsburg RD 5.

Messerle Marks 98th Birthday

Bushkill — Fred Messerle, Bushkill's oldest resident, passed another milestone in his life by attaining his 98th birthday on Sunday. Mr. Messerle was born in Bern, Switzerland August 6, 1863 where he spent his youth and early manhood. Following his term of military service in his native country he immigrated to this country.

In his early years in the United States he worked on truck farms in the New Jersey area and then came to the Bushkill area where his earliest employment was at Unity House, which then included only a few buildings compared to its present size.

For many years Mr. Messerle was self-employed in the lumbering business.

Retired for a number of years, Mr. Messerle and his wife, the former Edith Walters live on Lehman Alley.

Although his hearing and eyesight are impaired, Mr. Messerle is still able to walk out of doors daily, weather permitting.

An informal family gathering was held at the Messerle home to celebrate Mr. Messerle's birthday. Included in the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Messerle's two sons Frank and Louis with their families, who live nearby.

Mrs. Transue Soloist In Maine Church

Mrs. Charlotte Transue of North Fifth St., Stroudsburg, has been serving during July as guest soloist for the Second Baptist Church in Isleboro, Maine, where she and her family are spending the summer. Rev. William Jowett is pastor of the church. She will continue to serve for most of August.

The Transues report that the weather has been wonderful on this island in Penobscot Bay and that they have often had a wood fire going all day long.

Copies Of Paris Styles Speed Into U.S. Production

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
(AP Fashion Writer)

New York (AP) — Copies of Paris styles went into production here this week just days after French couturiers ended their shows revealing fall design secrets.

Within three weeks after $1,000 Dior, Givenchy, Balenciaga and other Paris originals are due to reach their wealthy customers, line-for-line copies will be selling in American department stores for no more than $99.95, very often less.

They will exactly duplicate pattern, color fabric and craftsmanship—everything but the label. American adaptations — nearly the same designs with perhaps lighter weight fabrics, or cut less extremely—will be ready even sooner.

Manufacturers must wait until the Aug. 22 delivery of Paris originals before beginning the line-for-line copies. It takes less than two weeks to move thousands through the production lines to the stores.

More than 200 designers representing American garment manufacturing enterprises attended the recent Paris couture shows. Most are at their drawing boards this week, putting on paper the designs they memorized from sight and touch.

Sketching designs, however, is forbidden by law in France. But American artists have two chances to study them: Once during the fashion shows; again when they buy clothes to be sent back home.

The high cost of sending designers to Europe twice a year, plus the expense of purchasing originals for closer study has paid off for most garment district manufacturers.

"Paris duplication is a shot in the arm between our seasons," says Belle Saunders who, with co-designer Mario Forte, has been directing the operation for Abe Sraeder, Inc. for nine years.

For example, Miss Saunders purchased a sleeveless, square-necked dress with a pleated skirt from Nina Ricci for $1,000. In the two years since, more than 30,000 women have paid about $70 for her copies.

Dresses, too complicated to produce in quantity, costumes that fail to hang well on racks, and others too extreme for American tastes are admired and forgotten by the designer-copyists.

Sometimes, as the year Paris championed the chemise and the trapeze, reproducing French designs is a headache. Forte and Miss Saunders agree. Their company, which is on the high end of the middle price bracket, can afford to build shape and body under such garments with fabric. But bargain basement producers can't. The cheap copies ruin the trend, they say.

This year copying was simple. Forte claims, "It was a subtle season with little changes except perhaps a wide belt, a crushed one. It's going to be a great year for belts. Or the tapering of the flare. Even Balenciaga isn't terribly fitted when you take his belts away."

American designers love the trips to Paris. Manufacturers like the added business that the snob appeal of an almost-Paris label has for customers.

"But the trouble is," designer Forte says, "French fashions are beginning to look more and more like New York."

Job Hunting Is Simplified By Help From The Inside

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

Whether you're planning to job-hunt for a first job or a change-over job, one approach to consider is the business of asking for help from a person who can give you a push in the right direction.

This is a system that works, regardless of what your career plans are. And sometimes it can lead you to unexpected breaks.

Asked For Introduction
Joanna Barnes, for instance, who is now well on her way to incredible success in the movies at an early age, was in the market for work in the literary field five years ago. While she was trying to establish herself in work that she'd like, she decided to ask a former film actress with publishing contacts for an introduction to a publisher.

The former actress could readily see that Joanna had a lot to offer in the way of artistic training, a still shiny Phi Beta Kappa key and a glowing beauty.

On a hunch, the actress sent Joanna to Columbia Pictures instead of a publisher. And before Joanna could say "Hollywood" she was in California making a screen test.

True Life Story
The rest of her story reads like a movie script itself, with star-dusted success in both movies and television.

But this system of asking for help from a person who can give you a shove in the right direction isn't limited to the movies and television. It can apply equally well to everyday jobs in the everyday world.

A woman I know, for instance, had her heart set on getting a job in a certain bank in a certain

Don't Be Reluctant To Use A "Helping Hand" To Get Ahead

As a result of the young woman's visit, the retired officer went beyond writing the letter. He telephoned the personnel director at the bank instead. And since there was a job to be filled, for which the young woman was trained, she was the applicant who got it because of the extra push.

Right Push
Asking for help from a person who can give you a push in the right direction, however, is a whole lot different from capitalizing on pull — and expecting to slide into a job on somebody else's reputation instead of your own merits. But if you're qualified, trained and anxious to do good work, the right kind of push can put you first in line for a job.

Stork Shower Is Held For Mrs. John Lazo

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY—231 years in four volumes, of the LaBar family in America, is here being presented to the Monroe County Historical Society. History Of Pioneer Family Presented To Historical Society At LaBar Reunion

The genealogy and summary of the history of the LaBar family, covering this family's 231 years of history in America has been summarized by the family historian, Mrs. Harriet (Resh) De Rosa of 449 Cottontail Lane, East Stroudsburg.

The original name LeBarre was brought across the Atlantic in 1730 by three brothers: Peter, Charles and Abraham who left their native France because of religious persecution. Landing at Philadelphia, they learned what they could of the country and the Indians, and following the Delaware River, settled between Stateford and Portland.

There they built a cabin, explored the surrounding region, and made friends with the Indians, exchanging food and acquiring a knowledge of their language. By the close of the first year they had acquired a tolerably fair idea of the Lenape language and could converse quite freely with their red friends.

Other settlers, following rapidly into this hunters' settlement, many of them from Germany. Each of the brothers took German wives.

Peter took his Dutch teacher further north where he bought a tract of land from the Indians. Later he bought more land southwest of where Stroudsburg now stands. He raised a large family of children and in trying times was often called upon to assist those who came for refuge to Fort Hamilton.

Charles remained in the old cabin homestead in Mount Bethel.

Abraham planted himself above the Water Gap Notch. Here he lived many years and also raised a large family. It was the original French brothers who first cut the road through the mountain gap, afterwards known as Tott's Gap, which led in almost a direct line from the early cabin to Peter's place near Stroudsburg.

The family history also records that while some of the family were kind to the Indians, others were not and would tease and tantalize and play tricks on them, some of which might have cost a poor Indian his life.

Octogenarian Pioneer
George Sr., son of Peter, after accumulating much property in Mount Bethel, decided at the age of 83, to go West. He sold most of his property to his son Isaac, loaded up his wagon behind a good team of horses and with his wife, started west about

'Italian Summer' Is Hailed As Immensely Readable Saga

ITALIAN SUMMER by Bobby Westbrook. Himes Printing Co., State College, Pa. 102 pages. $2.95.

By LEONARD RANDOLPH
This remarkable book is the result of one Summer in the life of a genuinely perceptive newspaperwoman who has always been skillful in her profession's effort to find the right phrase to pinpoint and illuminate the human condition.

In the broadest possible sense of the term, Italian Summer is a travel journal. It describes, certainly, the persons and places one would encounter in a pleasant and peripatetic season; from London to Paris to Venice and Rome, the standard tourist mecca are all here, set down on paper sensitively and with great good humor.

As is always the case with truly good travel books, this one tells as much about the traveler as it does about the places visited.

It is possible, for example, to find brilliant descriptions of the Clock Tower in St. Mark's Square, an open-air production of Aida in the Baths of Caracalla on the less-traveled-by village of Guiliano. Yet none of these can overshadow the brief, incisive glimpses of character which are the author's stock in trade.

The book opens with straight vintage Westbrook: A nostalgic, yet still typically unselfish, unromanticized look at her grandmother Harriet who made the author "as happy at home in a book as in a wading pool."

The best sample of concise characterization in the book comes here when Mrs. Westbrook says of her grandmother: "She was a slender edition of Queen Victoria. The crutch she used was not a symbol of infirmity but a scepter; the white hair piled high on her head, not a sign of age, but a crown."

It is this sort of paragraph, this vitality in writing that have made most of what Bobby Westbrook has done in her years as an editor and columnist immensely worthwhile. She is an entertaining writer, yes — but, more than this, she is a writer of lasting value.

The contents of Italian Summer first appeared in The Daily Record. They gave the readers of this newspaper a humorous and affectionate American view of life in foreign countries — a view which managed to go far beneath the superficial.

The people of the columns printed during Summer, 1960 may seem far removed from the citizens of Monroe County, but Bobby Westbrook brought to them, and to her understanding of them, the same warmth and eager friendship she has shown to her own community.

Reading them as they are originally printed, day by day, in the pages of a newspaper, it is all too easy to forget that there is a continuity of effort, a delightful projection of a born writer's personality in them. Now that the columns have been collected and brought together under one cover, their value is far more evident.

This is an immensely readable book, to begin with; it is beautifully designed (by Pat Schultz) and printed. Every paragraph will seem familiar to those who read the columns — yet there is something new, also, for the careful reader each time he opens the book.

It may grieve some of us that it has taken so long to get Westbrook writing between covers. Those columns, which have appeared every day in The Record have contained some of the finest personal journalism in our history.

Whether she has written about the death of a close friend, the loss of her own husband or the tragic aftermath of a major flood, Bobby Westbrook has found the most perceptive and honest phrase for her description.

Time after time, her columns have hit at the center of great truths — and they have been all the more brilliant because they were clothed in the unassuming language of a mother. One of the greatest of those, incidentally, described the complex emotions aroused when her son killed his first animal.

It was printed, of course, on the "family page" and it could easily be dismissed as "woman's page writing." It was not. As a sample of writing-in-depth, honest reporting and universal

Sunday School classes and also for the young people's activities and social events. The room is desperately needed before Winter, to provide for the classes now meeting in the bus.

"What we need are time, money and more interested adults, Rev. Henwood notes. "While our congregation is growing, it is mainly children. We need the parents, too, so much!"

There is no official board, as such, for Jericho Church. All business is conducted by the congregation as a whole.

Officers who serve are Edna Fitz, secretary; Iva Fitz, treasurer; George Fitz, trustee; Edna Fitz, organist; Melva Lee Parsons, pianist. The church has no affiliation with any other church or faith, and its main requirement for members is regular attendance.

A sign for the exterior of the church, announcing worship and other services, was constructed and donated by Thomas Henwood, of Long Island, an uncle of the pastor, who also supplies boxes of Christmas candy for every person in the congregation.

Thomas Henwood visits the little country church as often as it is possible, remarking that "here is a friendliness and warmth never found in a city church!"

Until recently, the minister held a full-time job in addition to his pastoral duties. This afforded him little time for visitation and study.

This year he gave it up and went into the carpentering business for himself, in order to have more time for his ministry—a ministry that includes regularly transporting a school bus full of children who would otherwise be forgotten.

Art Group Plans For Street Show

THE POCONO Mountains Art Group will meet at Lee Albert's home Tuesday night.

To reach Mrs. Albert's home, take Route 209 through Snyder'sville. After passing Beseker's Diner and the Circle Motel turn right off 209, then turn left and continue to the white picket fence.

At this meeting plans will be completed for the upcoming outdoor street show at Court House Square Friday and Saturday, Aug. 18 and 19. This will be the second exhibit sponsored by the group this summer.

As in the first show there will be artists represented from Monroe County as well as many distant areas. Paintings in all mediums will be on display. There will also be demonstrations.

Any amateur or professional artists desiring to exhibit should contact Frank Fitzgerald of Snyder'sville for assignment of space.

Greene-Dreher FFA To Meet

NEWFOUNDLAND—The Greene-Dreher Chapter, Future Farmers of America, will meet tonight at 7:30 at the school for the August business session with Donald Kimble presiding.

The FFA met last week in a work night session in which they planned and started their exhibit on "Tractor Maintenance" which will be entered in the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair from Aug. 30 through Sept. 2, and the Wayne County Fair at Honesdale early in September.

Minister Revives Church Interest

It was a modest frame building with one large room, and it remains much the same as it did in its early history. It is a structure 30 x 35 feet, and contains colonial pews, straight-backed and divided down the middle, enclosed on three sides.

Two stoves, one an ancient pot-bellied variety, heat the building, which is never closed, Summer or Winter. There is a pump organ as well as a piano.

The interior is simple, and was renovated in the Fall of 1958, a year and a half after it was reopened by Rev. Henwood in early 1957. Electric lights were installed in December of that year, with the labor donated by Harry Cron, of Angels. Light fixtures were the gift of the Newfoundland Moravian Church.

The church had been closed since 1920, with the exception of an annual meeting, which had also been discontinued during the 1940's.

Then Rev. Henwood, a Sterling native and a graduate of the Philadelphia College of the Bible, was asked to re-open the church. It is largely through his efforts that the Sunday School has grown to 35 members, with six classes including beginners, primary, junior boys, junior girls, young people and adults.

Future expansion plans at Jericho call for digging out a basement room under the church (this will also eliminate the very drafty condition of the floors in the church), and "if a way is provided," for building a 20 x 30 foot Sunday School room on the back of the church building.

This would provide room for

State Police Plan Rodeo At Hazleton

THE Pennsylvania State Police will present their mounted units in an exhibition at Harman Geist Stadium, Hazleton on Friday with performances at 2 and 8 p.m. In case of rain, the program will be held at the same time Saturday.

Both exhibitions will be open to the public at no charge. The afternoon show is designed to appeal particularly to children.

Included will be rodeo acts, trick motorcycle riding, precision and fancy riding drills, pistol shooting and other events.

The show, authorized by Col. Frank G. McCartney, State Police commissioner, is sponsored by Troop A, District Three, which has its headquarters in Hazleton.

Convertible Debentures

By William A. Doyle

Q. I hold some American Machine & Foundry common stock in a margin account with a leading brokerage firm. In 1957 I subscribed to $1,000 of AMF five percent convertible debentures through a "rights offering." This was a coupon debenture and I put it in my safe deposit box.

In February, 1961, the company "called" these debentures for redemption. I did not know about this, so I lost the conversion privilege. My broker claims that a letter was sent to me explaining all this.

I feel that the broker should have contacted me by telephone. He didn't, so I feel he should pay part of the loss I am suffering. Do you agree?

A. This may be a hard thing for you to swallow but the answer is NO. If the broker sent a letter explaining that the debentures had been called for redemption, he's in the clear. You will have to learn to pay closer attention to your mail.

You do have a right to be unhappy with the customers' man who handled your account at the brokerage house. If your customers' man had been on the ball, he should have made a greater effort to contact you.

The fact that he didn't make that effort is a tipoff that you're not getting very good service from him. You can stop doing business with this brokerage firm. But you can't force the firm to cough up any of the money you let slip away.

And a lot of money did slip away. AMF called those debentures for redemption at the close of business Feb. 28, at "104" and accrued interest.

That means the company will pay you $1,040 (plus any interest you have not collected) for your $1,000 debenture. The debenture stopped drawing interest after Feb. 28.

"The debenture was convertible "at 19 1/8" through Feb. 28. If you had converted up until the close of business on that date, you would have received one share of AMF common stock for each $19.125 face amount of debenture you turned in.

You could have converted and swapped your $1,000 debenture for 52 shares of AMF common stock and several dollars in cash. AMF common has been trading recently at around $45 a share. The 52 shares you would have received, if you had converted, would now be worth about $2,440.

But you have no choice except to settle for the $1,040 call price. You let $1,400 slip through your fingers by not converting in time.

This should be an object lesson to everyone who owns convertible securities which have a "call" provision. You have to keep up-to-date on them. If you don't, you may kick money down the drain.

Q. Instead of leaving us money in a will, my mother wants to make us a gift of the money now. Will any Federal income tax have to be paid on the gift?

A. No. The recipients (you and the others who receive the gifts) won't have to pay any Federal tax. But, if the gifts are large enough, your mother may be required to pay a Federal gift tax.

Each person (your mother in this case) can give away $30,000 as a "lifetime exclusion" without paying Federal gift taxes and, in addition, can make annual gifts of $3,000 each to as many people as she pleases without incurring a gift tax liability.

For married couples making gifts jointly, these figures are doubled.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Tom Ewell In Matinee Performance

POCONO Playhouse, Mountainhome, announces an extra attraction of the season in the appearance of Tom Ewell, famous Broadway comedian in a one-time appearance at the theater in a special matinee Thursday, Aug. 17 at 2:40 p.m.

Ewell will present his one-man show, "We've Had Some Fun" prior to his tour of the United States this coming Fall and Winter, and has selected Pocono Playhouse as one of the few summer theaters in which he will appear during the latter part of August.

The comedian with the lovable grin is well known to theatergoers as the star of "The Seven Year Itch" and "The Tunnel of Love," both Broadway successes. He has appeared in numerous movies and in his own recent TV series.

His new show "We've Had Some Fun" differs from other recent one-man shows in that it is funny from beginning to end and only funny. He has drawn his material from the great American humorists of the past 50 years and in his own inimitable way will characterize the manner of the original humorist and portray several characters.

A partial list of the authors whose works will be offered includes George Ade, James Thurber, Ring Lardner, Ogden Nash, Phyllis McGinley, Stephen Leacock, Finley Peter Dunne (Mr. Dooley), Milt Gross, Josh Billings, Corey Ford and Kin Hubbard. This will be the only opportunity to see Ewell in this area and he gives the one performance only.

Reservations for seats may be made by phoning LY 5-7456.

SIMPLE MACHINE SAVES 7,000 KOREANS FROM STARVING

Until a simple noodle-making machine was brought to South Korea, 7,000 orphans, widows and students were on the verge of starvation. Now, 500 miles of noodles a day, every day, are made from American wheat flour, corn meal and powdered milk—and Kyonggi's hungry people can face the future with new hope and courage.

This life-saving assistance is the direct result of Americans supporting their faith's Overseas Aid Program. While this endeavor is Catholic, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain extensive relief programs.

The needs of millions are being met, one by one... and the work must go on. These religion-sponsored programs are often the only hope for destitute millions throughout the free world. Next time you are asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember what just simple noodles can mean in terms of human life.

Edge Minnesota Twice

Mantle Hits 3 Homers; Yanks Lead 2 1-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle walloped three home runs Sunday, stretching his season total to 43, but the New York Yankees needed last-inning rallies in each game to sweep a doubleheader from Minnesota's fighting Twins, 7-6 and 3-2.

The first game went 15 innings, equalling the longest game played in the majors this season.

The twin victories, coupled with Detroit's split with the Cleveland

Indians, widened the Yankees' first place lead to 2½ games over the Tigers.

Clete Boyer drove in the winning run in the bottom of the inning with a line single to right. His blow scored Mantle, who had drawn a base on balls off Al Schroll, the Twins' starter and loser.

Double Play Fails

Mantle had moved to second on Eddie Howard's single and to third when the Twins failed to complete a double play on Bill Skowron's bounce back to the pitcher. Second baseman Ted Lepcio's throw to first pulled Harmon Killebrew off the bag.

Yogi Berra's grounder produced the winning run in the 15th inning of the opener. The force play scored Bobby Richardson, who had singled, moved to second on a safe bunt by Boyer and to third on Roger Maris' long fly.

Rookies Roland Sheldon and Hal Reniff were credited with the Yankees' victories. Sheldon went all the way in the nightcap, spacing eight hits for his eighth victory in 11 decisions. Reniff hurled scoreless ball in three innings of the opener and received credit for his first major league success.

Whitey Ford, for the second straight time, failed to gain his 20th victory, a figure that has eluded him in his 10 years with the Yankees. The left - hander pitched 10 innings of the opener, giving up all Minnesota runs, three of them coming on home runs by Bob Allison, Zoilo Velazquez and Bill Tuttle.

Early Lead

Mantle's first homer came in the first inning of the opener, giving the Yanks a 2-0 lead.

Mantle's second homer came with nobody on base in the bottom of the third. It was his 42nd of the season, breaking a tie with teammate Roger Maris, and the 362nd of Mickey's career, moving him into ninth place, one homer ahead of Joe DiMaggio.

Mantle's third homer came in the second inning of the nightcap. It was a solo smash and gave him 100 runs batted in for the season.

Pinson's Homer Saves Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Vada Pinson hit his 10th home run Sunday, knocking the ball into the right field bleachers and winning the game 3-2 for Cincinnati as the Reds split a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates took the opener 9-4. The split left the Reds trailing the league-leading Dodgers by one percentage point.

Pinson's homer came in the 10th inning off reliever Roy Face (4-5). Pinson also scored the tying run for the Reds in the eighth.

He singled and stole second. Then the Pirates changed pitchers, with the count 3-1, on Gordon Coleman and Coleman promptly singled to center, scoring Pinson.

The Reds' first run came in the sixth on Ello Chacon's single. Eddie Kasko's double and Dick Groat's fumble. Groat fumbled Pinson's grounder.

Held Lead

Up to then, the Pirates had a 2-0 lead. Their first run came in the fourth on a double by Hal Mazeroski and a single by Hal Smith. Next inning Don Hoak got to base on an error, advanced on a single by Roberto Clemente and scored when Mazeroski forced Clemente.

The nightcap victory went to Jim Brosnan (7-3), who took over for Jim O'Toole in the eighth.

In the opener, the Pirates pounded Joey Jay (15-7) and Jim Maloney for 10 hits, including homers by Clemente and Hoak and bases-loaded singles by Groat and Bill Virdon.

Both singles came with two out and each was good for two runs. Gene Freese and Wally Pott homered for the Reds in the first game, which was won by Wilmer Mizell (5-8), who had lost seven straight games.

Howard Bats Dodgers To League Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Howard drove in four runs with a homer, a triple and a double as the Los Angeles Dodgers took over first place in the National League Sunday by defeating the Chicago Cubs 11-4.

Mauri Willis also hit a homer for the Dodgers—the first of his three-year major league career.

Left-hander Johnny Podres gave up 10 hits but the distance for the Dodgers and picked up his 14th victory in 17 decisions. Cub starter Jack Curtis gave up eight runs in four innings and suffered his sixth loss against seven victories.

Comes Off Curtis

Willis got three hits in four at bats and scored four runs. He got his homer off Curtis in the 4th, in his 1,165th time at bat as a major leaguer.

Howard hit a two-run homer in the same inning, his 10th of the season.

Wally Moon drove in three Dodger runs with two singles and a double in four trips. Moon has nine hits in his last 14 at bats.

Bill Williams and pinch-hitter Don Zimmerman homered for the Dodgers.

Cardinals Sweep Pair From Phils

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Carl Sawatski's pinch home run in the seventh inning and his bases-loaded single in the ninth gave the St. Louis Cardinals a doubleheader sweep over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday, winning the first game 3-1 and the second 3-2.

Sawatski came up for Chris Cannizzaro with two out in the seventh and Curt Flood on first base on Charley Smith's error. His homer was his sixth of the season and the fourth he has delivered as a pinch-hitter. He stayed in to catch and close out the game.

The Cards trailed 2-0 at that point because the Phils had picked up two runs in the first inning on Johnny Callison's sixth home run and Smith's run-scoring single.

But Bob Gibson drove down thereafter, matching Jim Owens pitch for pitch en route to squaring his record at 8-8. Gibson struck out nine and walked four going all the way and allowing six hits.

Heart Breaker

It was heart-breaker all the way round for Owens. In the top of the ninth, Clay Dalrymple singled and was sacrificed to second. Bobby Malkmus ran for Dalrymple and Owens, who stayed in to hit and singled. But Malkmus was nailed on Curt Flood's perfect peg to the plate.

Ken Boyer led off the Cards' ninth with a single and Joe Cunningham, attempting to punt, forced him at second. Owens then threw two wild pitches before walking James. Flood also walked and Jack Baldschun came in to be greeted by Sawatski's hit.

The loss was the ninth in a row for the last-placers.

Sadecki Wins

In the first game, Ray Sadecki, 20-year-old left-hander, was the whole show. The youngster matched his victory total for all of last season by picking up his ninth decision on a four-hitter.

Now 9-5, Sadecki also drove in all the Cards' runs with a bases-loaded double in the second inning. He was deprived of a shut-out in the ninth when a walk, Lee Walls' double, an infield out and Charley Smith's sacrifice fly gave the Phils their lone score.

DETROIT (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, muffled on three hits by southpaw Don Mossi in the opener, supported Mudcat Grant with a 13-hit attack and won the second game of a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers Sunday 9-5.

The Tigers won the opener 2-1 before a crowd of 49,666.

Don Dillard and Tito Francona smashed first-inning home runs off Paul Foytack and got Grant started toward his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

The Tigers, who benefited from nine Cleveland errors in the four-game series, helped the tribe to four unearned runs in the nightcap on errors by third baseman Reno Bertoia and pitcher Hank Auriere.

The split dropped the Tigers to 2½ games behind New York, which won both ends of a doubleheader against the Minnesota Twins Sunday, 7-6 and 3-2.

Manager Bob Scheffing, trying to keep his Tigers close to the league-leading New York Yankees, tossed five pitchers into the second game. But the bullpen has failed Scheffing recently and it failed him again Sunday.

Junior Title

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Charlie McDowell, a slender, serious high school boy from Virginia Beach, Va., won the 14th U.S. Golf Association Junior Championship Sunday with a tenacious upset victory over the favorite, Jay Sigel of Whitemarsh, Pa. 1 up.

A 170-yard pressure shot from the rough on the 18th green turned the trick for the 16-year-old youngster after Sigel's approach caught a trap.

With Charlie three feet from the cup in three strokes, Sigel conceded his par four.

McDowell, who enters Phillips Exeter Academy next month, had led since the 13th hole, where Sigel missed a two-foot putt and took a one-over-par 5. On the previous hole, Jay, a two-time Pennsylvania Jaycee junior champion, had evened the match with an 18-foot putt for a birdie 2.

Bosox K. C. Split

BOSTON (AP) — Boston comeback left-hander Chet Nichols pitched eight and two-thirds innings of relief for a 4-2 victory Sunday, his second in a week, as the Red Sox split a doubleheader with Kansas City.

The Athletics came back and took the nightcap, 1-0, behind the five-hit hurling of rookie southpaw Jim Archer.

Unable to register a major league victory in six years, the 30-year-old Nichols suddenly has found the touch upon his recovery from a broken hand.

Nichols replaced Red Sox starter Galen Cisco with one run in, one out and two runners aboard in the opening inning. Chet scattered six singles the rest of the game and surrendered only one more run via walk, sacrifice and singles by Leo Posada and Wayne Causey in the fifth inning.

Archer hooked up in a scoreless pitchers duel with fellow rookie Tracy Stallard of Boston for six innings in the nightcap. Posada and Haywood Sullivan put together singles in the seventh, the former scoring as Bobby Del Grego hit into a double play.

3 Swimming Records Set In Jap Meet

NAGOYA, Japan (AP) — Three world swimming records were bettered by two American and one Japanese swimmers Sunday night in a Japan International Swimming Meet.

Chet Jastremski, 20, an Indiana University junior from Toledo, Ohio, who helped his team win the 400-meter medley race in the opening event, smashed Australia's Terry Gathercole's world mark in the 200-meter breaststroke of 2:36.5 by .5 seconds. Jastremski's time was 2:36 seconds flat.

It was the fifth time the American swimmer bettered Gathercole's record in two months. He improved the world mark three times in the Japan Swimming Championships in Tokyo July 28-30 and the fourth time in Osaka Aug. 4. He has a 2:33.3 up for recognition.

The other world marks bettered were by Indiana University's Tom Stock, 19, and Japan's Tsuyoshi Yamanaoka in the 200-meter backstroke and 200-meter freestyle, respectively.

Seek Curbs In Sale Of 'Pep' Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., Sunday called for enactment of legislation to tighten federal laws against the illegal traffic in "pep" pills and barbiturates.

Yarborough said the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee will hold hearings soon on legislation endorsed by Yarborough proposing sterner penalties against peddlers of the drugs. He called them "traffickers in human misery, out for easy money."

Guy Manning To Star At Gap Theater

TELEVISION and movie actor, Guy Manning, will star in Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday," opening Tuesday night at the Gap Summer Theater, Wind Gap. Manning can be seen on "Naked City" and "U. S. Confidential" and also has experience in Canadian TV.

Manning is cast as the reporter in this contemporary comedy, dealing with political life in Washington, D. C. The play is particularly timely now because of the national picture showing the lobbying and political maneuverings by members of the Senate and big political bosses.

This play skyrocketed Judy Holliday to fame, and her famous role of Billie Dawn will be portrayed by Manning's wife, Angela Van Hoes. The couple are enjoying their honeymoon following their life's ambition in theater.

The production will be directed by David Sawn, author of the new play "Hunger. That Crosses The Bridge Between" which was presented last week at the Gap Theater.

Barrett Branch YMCA stay at home camp. Family picnic and pow wow at Promised Land State Park. Campers leave at 2:30 p.m. Parents come for supper, 6 p.m.

Saturday — Teen Dance, Barrett Branch YMCA, 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Sunday — Anniversary services at the Mountainhome Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. Clarence F. Carter, guest speaker. Worship, 8:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

Moravian Memorial Day services at the Canadensis Moravian Church. Communion with covered dish luncheon immediately following worship at 11 a.m.

Barrett Town Team hosts Readers Baseball Team, 2 p.m. Memorial Lovefeast, Canadensis Moravian Church, guests and visitors are welcomed, 7:30 p.m.

Members of the Canadensis Methodist Church WSCS will feature fancy work, baked goods and candy at the bazaar in the church, 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Dear Abby

Odds Against Him

Dear Abby: I am married to a man who is so broke he has even considered selling his body to a medical school when he dies for a little cash today. — He earns (be- lieve it or not) $18,000 a year, but we can't break even because he has to support three families! He was married twice before, and has six children. So he has to throw his money away on wives and children he never sees. It is like buying oats for dead horses. I don't believe in letting ex-wives and children starve to death, but both his ex-wives are staying single and bleeding him for everything he has just to be spiteful. Is there any way my husband can get his alimony and support money reduced? Don't suggest a lawyer. We are broke because of them.

THIRD WIFE
Dear Third: Sorry, but when you want legal advice, a lawyer is still the best buy. The "horses" for whom your husband must buy "oats" are very much alive. And when a man chooses to change horses (three times yet!) in the middle of the stream, he had better have enough oats to stock Churchill Downs. You picked a losing cat-burner, sister.

Dear Abby: I am almost twelve years old. When I was younger, my mother clobbered me. Now that I am older, I get restricted. I would much rather get clobbered. What is your solution?

RAT
Dear Rat: Rats can't choose their poison. Behave yourself.

Dear Abby: I want to know what is so good about having a marriage license? I am sick of married women turning up their noses at me. I have been a mistress for 12 years, have two children by the man, and he hasn't left me yet. He lives with his folks, and I rent a house. He comes to see me every chance he gets. He can't take me or the children out in public on account of his folks and friends, but a lot of married people don't go out together either. I am just as good a mother as any married woman, so what's the difference?

NOT MARRIED
Dear Not: If you don't care whether your children are legitimate and have a normal home life, and if social acceptance and respectability mean nothing to you, then there is nothing the matter with your arrangement.

Dear Abby: I am almost twelve years old. When I was younger, my mother clobbered me. Now that I am older, I get restricted. I would much rather get clobbered. What is your solution?

RAT
Dear Rat: Rats can't choose their poison. Behave yourself.

Dear Abby: I want to know what is so good about having a marriage license? I am sick of married women turning up their noses at me. I have been a mistress for 12 years, have two children by the man, and he hasn't left me yet. He lives with his folks, and I rent a house. He comes to see me every chance he gets. He can't take me or the children out in public on account of his folks and friends, but a lot of married people don't go out together either. I am just as good a mother as any married woman, so what's the difference?
